Dear [REDACTED]

OFFICIAL INFORMATION ACT REQUEST 2023/15

On Friday 19 May 2023 you made a request under the Official Information Act 1982 (the OIA) for the following information:

I am requesting the information of what happens to a person's vote, in a general election, if they were to vote No Confidence?

Does this vote get assigned to someone?

Does this vote be registered as a Vote Of No Confidence that any parties or options are not suitable for my needs?

What happens to a person's vote of no confidence please?

*...what happens to a person's vote, in a general election, if they were to vote No Confidence?
Does this vote get assigned to someone?*

No

Does this vote be registered as a Vote Of No Confidence that any parties or options are not suitable for my needs?

No, any party votes that do not clearly indicate the party for which the voter desired to vote and any electorate votes that do not clearly indicate the candidate for whom the voter desired to vote, are recorded as informal.

What happens to a person's vote of no confidence please?

The Electoral Commission is required to administer elections in accordance with the Electoral Act 1993.

The form of the ballot paper for parliamentary elections is prescribed in section 150 and form 11 of the Electoral Act.

There is currently no formal way to register a vote of 'no confidence' in a general election or by-election.

If a voter is issued a ballot paper, any party votes that do not clearly indicate the party for which the voter desired to vote and any electorate votes that do not clearly indicate the candidate for whom the voter desired to vote, are recorded as informal.

A party or electorate vote could be informal either because of a deliberate act (for example, the voter leaving the ballot paper blank, or crossing through all the options) or due to inadvertence.

Section 179 of the Electoral Act sets out how the official results are to be reported.

The Electoral Commission must declare the total number of:

- valid votes received by each of the parties listed on the party vote part of the ballot paper
- valid votes received by each constituency candidate
- informal party votes
- informal electorate votes.

Detailed Official Results for the 2020 General Election are available here, including the candidate and party informal votes by electorate.
